

KENRAY CLASSIC

The KENRAY Classic Forming Set has been improved and developed over three decades of continuous design and manufacturing process.

- Free from tracking or vertical seal problems
- Solutions available for all types of manufacturing makes and models
- Choice of gas flushing options
- Reduced weight and cost compared to OEM alternatives
- Custom designed to suit all applications
- All hand and seal formations available
- Cost effective all-round solution

The Classic is designed to both meet and surpass all of the OEM standard requirements.

Accuracy and Reliability for over 30 years.

Our forming shoulders and forming sets can be custom designed to any make or model required.

With various gas flushing options available, the Classic is our standard product forming set available for all types of applications such as snacks, frozen powder and vegetables.

As well as offering a high level of engineering excellence, our Classic range of forming shoulders and forming sets present a cost-effective all-round solution to support your business critical needs.

All Kenray Formers come with the ability to choose the relevant coating, which is right for your product. The right coating can help reduce film drag and enables an easier product flow and can even help dampen the noise on the lines.
